Foundations of Aural Rehabilitation: Children, Adults, and Their Family Members By Nancy Tye-Murray

We proudly present the new third edition of Foundations of Aural Rehabilitation: Children, Adults, and Their Family Members, one of our most successful and widely used texts for audiologists and speech-language pathologists. A readable, comprehensive resource, it covers topics such as identification and diagnosis of hearing and other hearing-related communication challenges, patient and family counseling, selection and fitting of listening devices, communication training, literacy promotion, and much more. General information is provided in the early sections, while the latter half of the book focuses on adult and child populations, respectively. New to this edition is a chapter devoted to infants and toddlers who have hearing loss and an expanded consideration of informational counseling

Editorial Review

Review

"This text is excellent. I have used a number of texts for teaching a course in aural rehabilitation over the last 25 years, and this is the most comprehensive and well-written text that I have used. There is excellent information and wonderful clinical case studies and examples of therapy goals, therapy materials, and therapy procedures throughout the text. The author ties together the research base in the discipline with the clinical theory and practice. The text is informative and easy to read with a wealth of information for students who are at various levels in terms of their knowledge base (beginner to advanced)."

"This book provides an excellent overview of aural rehabilitation for children and adults."

About the Author

Nancy Tye-Murray is a professor in the Department of Otolaryngology at Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, and an Adjunct Professor at New Zealand's University of Canterbury. A founder of the University of Iowa Cochlear Implant Aural Rehabilitation Programs, she also served as Director of Research for Central Institute for the Deaf. In addition to developing several communication strategies training programs, auditory training programs, and speechreading tests, Dr. Tye-Murray is the principle investigator of three National Institutes of Health RO1 grants. Her research focuses on the effects of aging on audiovisual speech recognition, discourse comprehension, and auditory training, as well as audiovisual speech processing by children who have normal and impaired hearing.
