Editorial Review

About the Author

Del DowDell, has put on seminars, trained and lectured extensively in more than 40 States, has owned and operated three businesses, designed international business strategies and operations programs, and taught, written and studied extensively about the Book of Mormon. Del has been involved in numerous Ward, Stake, Regional and Area callings since he was 14 years old, served as a Bishop in southern California, served on several high councils, and designed numerous training presentations, videos, and written programs for Church, Education, and Business. His love for the absolute accuracy of the Book of Mormon has resulted in this work, and three following volumes regarding the numerous misconceptions about where Lehi landed, where the Nephites' Land of Promise was located, and who really settled in Mesoamerica-including who the Jaredites were of Noah's posterity and how and when they came to settle in the Western Hemisphere. As an historian, researcher, writer, speaker, artist, and businessman, Del has undertaken this work that has spanned nearly twenty years to set the record straight on complete accuracy of every word in the Book of Mormon. As a scientific hobbyist and researcher, he has written several works on the fallacies of many scientific beliefs, has also authored scholarly works on Mesoamerica and the Andes Mountains, and his work on What's What in the Legal Hut was used by businesses and major corporations to design and implement training programs on legal management methods. As a father of seven and a grandfather of 27 and counting, Del's diverse and copious experiences and credentials enable him to write and speak on numerous subjects, including the teaching of the Book of Mormon for more than 30 years. Del currently lives with his wife of 48 years in a house he personally designed and they built themselves on a high ridge overlooking a spacious valley in a rural area of Southern Utah.
