Editorial Review

From the Author

This book contains my most important life's message. When I was 18, a freshman in a Baptist college, I heard the Lord speak to me on the first day of class, "The issue of your lifetime will be the Holy Spirit." This was an unusual word to receive for a young Baptist minister. Many years later, the first two times I first met John Wimber, both times he heard the audible word of the Lord say regarding me, "He will one day go around the world laying hands upon pastors and leaders releasing gifts and impartations to them." Ten years later this season of my life would begin. The word I heard the first day of college definitely has become true of my life. I wanted the message of the book to be biblical, historically illuminating, and inspiring due to the present day stories of impartation recorded in it. The biblical portion is to lay out the biblical foundation for the teaching regarding impartation. The historical portion reveals impartation is not a new teaching, but has been part of the history of the church. The testimonies are to prove that not only is the message biblical it is still for today. The miraculous aspects of the testimonies reveal the power of the Kingdom of God today that is to accompany the preaching of the gospel. The book is to be a challenge to the cessationist and/or liberal traditions. But, more importantly it has been used to cause a great hunger in many. Some pastors upon praying the prayer near the end of the book have received their own impartation of Holy Spirit's power and gifts. A few of these are now powerfully being used of God in their denomination or networks throughout the United States and around the world.

From the Back Cover

What if more is biblical? Even essential?

God is not a God of carefully measured handouts. He longs to give you more--as much as you're willing to receive.

More love. More power. More faith. More joy. More results in prayer.

With his trademark insight and encouragement, Randy Clark explains that more is not only biblical but essential for greater fruitfulness in ministry and service. And he shares how you can access the more God wants to give you.

It all starts with grace.

Grace is more than receiving eternal life. It is how we experience God's presence and power in our lives, and how He empowers us to do more than we ever imagined.

He wants to give you more.

He wants you to be a vessel of His glory. He wants to fill you with His Spirit and His gifts.

Will you accept?
